ABOUT KALABURAGI AND KALYANA KARNATAKA REGION

Central University of Karnataka is situated in Kalaburagi (formerly known as Gulbarga) in Kalyana Karnataka region. The region is vibrant with multilingual and multicultural structure. The region has given birth to acclaimed academicians, literary personalities, religious leaders and philosophers and houses philosophical and educational centres, epistemological works, social movements, great dynasties, incredible folk traditions in verbal and non-verbal art forms and industries. One of the oldest human settlements in Asia is found at Samper of Surpur taluka. Remains of the Stone Age are seen in and around the areas of Maski, Hire Benakal, and Balichakra etc.

The history of this region is rich in literature. Many Vachanakaras, Kirtanakaras and Tatvapadakaras hail from this region. Works like Allama's vachanas started epistemological tradition in the region. There are also many religious and philosophical centres like Sannati, Kanagana Halli, Koppala, Manyakheta (Capital of Rashtrakuta kingdom), Kalyana (Capital of Chalukya kingdom), Bidar, Savalagi, Tintini, Mudgal in the region.

Kalyana Karnataka has been home to many great dynasties like Rashtrakuta, KalyaniChalukya, Vijayanagar, Bahmani, Barid Shahi, Surapur Dore etc. This marvellous history has also led to incredible folk literatures both in verbal and non-verbal ways. The ancient sculptures at Hampi, Shiravala, Evuru, Kalagi, Bidar, Kalyana, Kalaburagi, Itagi etc., are worth mentioning. However modern technology has not left this region untouched.

A stone inscription discovered at Maski in Raichur district changed whole perception of understanding the history of India, for it being the first of its kind inscription found in the name of `Devanampriya', Asoka the Great, thus pointing to the Maurya empire reach to Tungabhadra. Sannati was one of the most prominent and vibrant Buddhist centres as Archaeological Survey of India excavations there have already established. Nagavi Ghatika in Chittapur taluk of Kalaburagi district was the most sought after center of higher learning attracting students and scholars from different parts in the medieval period. It enjoyed the patronage of Vikramaditya-VI, one of the mightiest emperors of the world of his times. This Ghatika, equivalent to today's university, had a well-established library managed by a qualified librarian, according to an inscription found here.

Maha Veeracharya (815 A.D.-878 A.D.), an ancient mathematician in the court of Rashtrakuta emperor Amoghavarsha who wrote Ganitasara Sangraha and Sri Jayateertha (1365 A.D. -1388 A.D.), a Vedantic scholar also known by the epithet Tikacharya, belonged to Malkhed on the banks of river Kagina of the region. Veeracharya's marvelous mathematical treatise `Ganitasara Sangraha' in Sanskrit verse, is a landmark work found relevant even today, in several aspects of mathematics. `Kavirajamraga', the first extant Kannada literary work was produced by Srivijaya around 850 AD during the period of Amoghavarsha alias Nrupatunga of the Rashtrakutas. The book about the theory of literature particularly poetry, has played a vital role in according classical language status to Kannada. Vijnaneshwara, a celebrated jurisprudentialist, in the court of Vikramadiya- VI, the Kalyani Chalukyan emperor, wrote the magnum opus `Mitakshara', commentary on the Yajnavlkya Smriti, in the 11th century. Hailing from Martur near Kalaburagi, Vijnaneshwara's Mitakshara became the cornerstone of the Indian legal system and it remained the sole system of justice throughout India except Bengal and Assam from 12th century till India attained independence.
Khwaja Bande Nawaj (1321-1422), a Sufi saint, settled in Gulbarga on the invitation of Bahman king Feroz Shah, was a pioneer in Urdu literature with his work `Me Rajul Askini.

His Dargah at Kalaburagi has become a major pilgrim centre for Muslims all over India and even abroad.
Kalaburagi is one of the three districts transferred from Hyderabad State to Karnataka state at the time of reorganization of the states in 1956. Now among the 31 districts of Karnataka, it is located in the North-Eastern part of state and lies between North latitude $17^0$10" and $17^0$45" and between east longitude $76^0$10"and $77^0$45". The District is the largest in the state covering 8.49% of the area and 5.9 % of the population of the state. Kadaganchi is 21 kilometres (13 miles) from Kalaburagi on SH10 highway with frequent KSRTC buses.

4. DEPARTMENT OF LINGUISTICS

Introductory remark about each department

India has one of the oldest and richest traditions of linguistic study in the world. The rich multilingual situation of India provides both challenges and opportunities for a well-designed research and training programme in Linguistics/Language Sciences. The great history and relatedness within and between languages and language families provide ample scope for academic research. The linguistic and literary traditions of various languages in India offer intellectually stimulating and emotionally integrating outcomes. Justification for a systematic study of language in India has not only scholarly, but also pragmatic one in terms of urgent regional, state, and national priorities. India faces many challenges in language education, both in mother tongue and second language. Integration of the historically underprivileged and marginalized classes and castes into the educational mainstream is a national priority and languages can play an enabling role. Many lesser-known, minor and tribal languages are in need of attention from scholars and policymakers to carry out description and documentation tasks for their development. The use of Indian languages as a medium of higher education remains an unfulfilled goal, especially, in the sciences. Recent advancements such as the use of regional languages in texting, emails, and the internet, call for precise descriptions of languages and adoption of techniques from natural language processing. Thus India needs a trained workforce in different applied areas of Linguistics to meet the present and future needs of the society. The programme and courses offered by the Department of Linguistics at CUK are designed to address these issues in research and teaching.

8. DEPARTMENT OF GEOGRAPHY

Head of the Department: Prof. Ali Raza Moosvi

I. Introduction

We shall not cease from exploration
And the end of all our exploring
Will be to arrive where we started
And know this place for the first time.

T.S Eliot, Little Giddings (1942)

The Department of Geography is a little over a decade old and has been striving to make a difference in teaching and learning aspects of Geography. As we understand, Geography is a unique subject that can bridge the divide between the sciences and the humanities and between the environment and society. On similar lines, this Department has been trying to create synergy between Physical and Human Geography and integrate newer technology such as the Geographical information system. The department is also trying to stay current and relevant by the inclusion of emerging areas.

Attempting to bring in an innovative approach, the Department offers courses offered aim at integrating both the basic theory and the applied aspects of the subject.

Young and enthusiastic faculty members, regularly updated curriculum and implementing the latest UGC Outcome Based Education guidelines and updated teaching and educational tools are our strengths. The students will learn and understand that Geography is everywhere and examines locations, connections, territories, environment and places and seeks to understand their significance. The students would further master the techniques of Geoinformatics tools and their application in a geographical context.

Geological knowledge enables to ensure a sustainable development of natural resources and the use of these resources responsibly.

The courses offered by the Department covers a wide range of core courses in geology and allied subjects. It provides foundation for the study of fundamental geologic methods and problems, both in the laboratory and in the field. It includes instruction in geomorphology, sedimentology, hydrogeology, geochemistry, stratigraphy, mineralogy, petrology, geostatistics, geophysics, remote sensing, environmental geology, economic geology, geophysical principles and geoinformatics. These courses are designed such that they blend traditional basics of earth sciences with the emerging cutting-edge geo-spatial applications and techniques so that the students are equipped with both theoretical constructs and practical applications of the subjects. The Department of Geology strives to achieve academic excellence and to produce geoscientists with world-class training.

Today the main focus of the Governance is, "It might be profitable to look upon government somewhat less as a problem of power and somewhat more as a problem of steering."

It is a unique integration of concepts, tools, and techniques with stress on understanding the philosophical concepts of Administrative Theories and Thinkers who contributed for effective and efficient organizations at Public and Private Sector, Contemporary Debates in Public Policy formulation, implementation, evaluation including the design and execution of delivery systems. VI. SCHOOL OF PHYSICAL SCIENCES

Introduction of the School of Physical Sciences:

Dean: Dr. Deepak Samuel

School of Physical Sciences was started in 2012 with the Departments of Mathematics and Physics as its constituents. The primary goal of the School is to provide high quality education in various domains of Physics and Mathematics at the undergraduate and post-graduate levels. The academic programs of the School of Physical Sciences are aimed at creating an environment that promotes research and innovation. The School is creating high quality infrastructure in terms of well qualified faculty, well equipped laboratories, computational facilities and high quality learning materials in various domains of Physics and Mathematics. This infrastructure would be utilized to create motivated young scientists and mathematicians capable of contributing to a "Knowledge Society". Towards this end the School of Physical Sciences offers programs leading to M.Sc. and PhD degrees.

The School consists of the following Departments:

1. Mathematics
2. Physics

21. DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS

The Department of Physics was started in the year 2012 and has ever since been in pursuit of excellence in physics education and research. The department currently offers M.Sc physics and Ph.D physics programmes catering to about 60 postgraduate, 90 integrated program students and 8 Ph.D students. The department with 4 faculties has its primary research activities focusing on soft-matter physics, spintronics, high energy physics and proton therapy. The department is gradually building its infrastructure with laboratories hosting research instruments like AFM, LB trough, X-ray diffractometer, Closed cycle cryogenic system, Sputtering unit and a GPU server. Recently, the Department has forayed into the burgeoning area of artificial intelligence, device development and membrane physics.

The major strength and highlight of the M.Sc programme is the project work carried out by the students in the final semester. The students can opt to carry out their project work at CUK or at another institution in India in a field of their choice. The students present their work and also submit a report at the end of their project. This training has helped students get first-hand experience of working in a research environment in addition to improving their scientific communication skills. Some of these projects have also resulted in peer-reviewed publications. As a result, more than 10 students have been placed in international Ph.D

programmes and many others have joined premier institutions like IISc, IITs and NITs. This reflects the outstanding training our students receive.

Another important educational initiative of the Department is the running of refresher courses in experimental physics supported by the Academies of Science. The Department has hosted 3 such courses so far and some of our faculties have been participating regularly as resource persons in many parts of the country.

Our faculty have initiated national and international collaborations and regularly present their work in seminars and conferences. Specifically, the Department has been actively involved in India's 2000 Cr. mega-science project India-based Neutrino Observatory and national initiatives like The Indian Nanoelectronics Users Program (INUP). As on date, the Department, through its faculty, has received grants of over Rs. 70 Lakhs for carrying out research projects.

IX. SCHOOL OF CHEMICAL SCIENCES

Dean: Prof. Konkallu Hanumae Gowd

The school of chemical sciences consists of single department, the Department of Chemistry. All the activities of the school of chemical sciences are contributions of the activities undertaken at the Department of chemistry. Following section describes the activities undertaken at Department of chemistry

26. DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY

Introduction:

Chemistry is the domain of Natural Sciences dealing with the science and technology of all living and non-living things on the earth. Its impact is spread over all human activities and industrial advances in the world. The motto of the Department is to explore various facets of the Chemistry, investigate new horizon and impart the knowledge to young students. Department of Chemistry is running a 4 semester (2 yrs) M.Sc. programme& PhD programme in Chemistry from the academic year 2014-15. The M.Sc. programme is designed to prepare scientists having a thorough knowledge of fundamentals as well as recent advances in modern chemistry. The students will be exposed to new emerging areas of research such as biological chemistry and materials science. The training provided over two years would enable the students to be in a better position to qualify in the national level tests such as UGC-CSIR fellowships, GATE and state level tests (SLET or SET) in Chemistry. A major feature of the M.Sc. program is the dissertation project that each student has to carry out in the fourth semester on topics of current research interest. The experience gained in the project work would prepare the students with adequate skills and knowledge to take up a career in research or enter industry. The Program includes visits to various National Institutions, industries, training on Laboratory safety issues, Intellectual Property rights and personality development to transform the students into innovative scientists. Please, visit department following department website for more information.

X. SCHOOL OF LIFE SCIENCES

Dean: Prof. Hanumae Gowd

27. DEPARTMENT OF LIFE SCIENCE

The Department of Life Science, established in the year 2019 under the headship of Prof. G R Naik (Dean), follows a strong tradition of combining high-end technology with impactful biology. Presently, Prof. K. Hanumae Gowd is the acting Dean of the School of Life Sciences and Dr. Pallepogu Raghavaiah is the in-charge Head of the Department. The Department of Life Science is actively growing with recent hires having excellent research and teaching experience in interdisciplinary subjects from premier institutes. We continue to leverage this integrative approach to yield break-through discoveries. This department offers a highly competitive two-year master's degree program in the basic and applied areas of animal and plant sciences and is due to start the PhD program (refer CUCET-2021 prospectus), with an intake of six PhD student from this academic year 2021-2022. The entire curriculum is designed to prepare students for a career in teaching, research and/or industry. The department emphasizes in developing scientific and innovative spirit in students, instilling professional ethics and spirit of service to the society at large. Laboratories here are equipped with several sophisticated instruments including RT-PCR, PCR, Fluorescence gel-doc, immuno-gel blot, autoclave, temperature-controlled incubators, biosafety units, Laminar flow, Elisa plate reader, etc. The most attractive feature of the M.Sc. program is the freedom given to the students to decide about domain specialization in the 2nd year of their studies. During semester III, the students will have the freedom to study subjects of his/her choice under the guidance of a faculty advisor. Another prominent feature of the M.Sc. program is the Dissertation project to be carried out in the 4th semester. The students will be allotted a project at the end of the 3rd semester, which they have to complete in the 4th semester. Additionally, each student is free to select an elective subject offered by various departments in 2nd and 3rd semester. The students are encouraged to come up with their individual project ideas with an aim to advance their knowledge, critical thinking and hands on training during the course of the program in addition to academic curriculum.

The first batch of MSc life science program started since July 2019, with an intake of 12 students (from different states of India). In the academic year 2020-2021, the first batch are due to complete their fourth semester (exam pending due to CoVID-19). Meanwhile, through CUCET common entrance exam, the second batch of students have been joined to the two-year master's program for the academic year 2020-2022.

B. CENTERS

1. CENTRE FOR ENDANGERED LANGUAGES

Language endangerment has been a global phenomenon and India has been facing serious challenges to maintain its linguistic diversity. UNESCO's 2009 Atlas of Endangered Languages has reported 196 languages as potentially endangered. So the role of government and other institutions plays a vital part to save these languages. In this situation the role of Universities becomes all the more important to preserve through documentation and revitalization of these languages. So, in order to look at the issues of endangered languages, the UGC constituted an expert committee on preservation and promotion of endangered languages. The committee recommended providing financial support for setting up special dedicated centres for study and research related to endangered languages. The commission has accepted the recommendation of the committee and decided to launch a scheme namely financial assistance for setting up centre for preservation and promotion of endangered languages during XII plan period. It was decided to implement this in the central universities initially. UGC instituted many Centres for endangered languages (CFEL) throughout India. The UGC has established 9 Centre for Endangered Languages and Central University of Karnataka is one of them.

The Centre for Endangered Languages, CUK started in November 2015. The Centre's main aim is to preserve and promote endangered languages of Karnataka and allied regions through documentation and revitalisation. The Centre also works to empower the Endangered Language communities in every possible ways by training them for sustainable development and prosperity.

Objectives of the Centre:

- Survey, Documentation, Analysis, Preservation, revitalization of minor/endangered/tribal languages
- Collection of linguistic data –literature, myths, medicine, science, unique knowledge etc.
- Preparation and publication of descriptive grammars, bilingual and trilingual dictionaries, phonetic readers, textbooks, reading materials
- To have digitized database which will have the language related data collected during course of the research and to make it available to the public
- To develop the reading materials such as mother tongue based manuals and primers for school children

The Centre has taken up the responsibilities to documentation and analysis ten minor endangered languages such as Arebase, Belari, Betta Kuruba, Byari, Chenchu, Erava, Havyaka, Koracha, Pattegar and Sanketi out of which six books are published and four more books are going to be published soon. These books are essential and can be a referential point for future researchers, for the communities themselves to carry forward their language, culture and tradition to the next level. The phase two documentations is under way.

The centre has the vision to revive and maintain endengared languages and also instil the sense of loyalty towards native language users.

The Centre in collaboration with Dept. of Linguistics, CU Karnataka organized two online lectures on the occasion of International Mother Language Day – 2021.

Dr. Stephen Morey, Associate Professor, La Trobe University, Australia
Topic: Researching Linguistic Diversity: The Case of Northeast India.

Topic: The Cognitive Potential of Mother Tongue Holdontoit

2. CENTER FOR CLASSICAL LANGUAGE, KANNADA

Kannada is one of the oldest and richest languages of India. Following the declaration of Tamil as a classical language, it was felt by the acadamic community that the wealth of literature in Kannada and Telugu also should be taken up for languages. Having been convinced with the high antiquity of texts and a body of ancient literature they posses, on the basis of the recommendation of the expert committee the Govt. of India declared Kannada and Telugu also as a classical languages (vide Ministry of Culture Notification No.2-16/2004-Academics dated October 31, 2008). Subsequently, the matter was placed before Cabinet for ex post facto approval. The cabinet in its meeting held on 8th May 2009 approved the proposal. As a consequence, the MHRD asked the University Grants Commission to take follow up action. The UGC set up a Committee to look into the modalities for establishment of the Centres of Classical Languages. The committee suggested that instead of professional chairs, the Centres of Classical languages be established in the select Central Universities.

Since my appointment in February 2020, I would like to mention some of the achievements at the center:

1. Communicated with more than 50 scholars in the field of Classical Kannada Language literature and culture.
2. More than ten scholars agreed to work on the projects approved by the Advisory Committee in Higher Authorities of the University.
    - A Handbook of Kannada Prosody (Published)
    - The Ocean of Prosody (Published))
    - Siddhrameshwar Vachanas – TR (50% work)
    - Sarwajna Vachanas – TR (80% work)
    - Tatwapadagala Padakosha (20%)
    - 300 Text lessons from Classical Kannada for VIII, IX, X, XI and XIIth class (70% work)

7. CUK Distinguished Lecture Series

Universities are known to be the centers of higher learning with the motto of imparting socially and academically relevant education. In the present academic framework the universities tend to develop a gap between the education imparted and the society because of the rigor involved. In the light of this fact Central University of Karnataka has envisioned a moral obligation to expose the students to the outer world through CUK Distinguished Lecture Series and bridge the gap between the academia and the society.

The objectives of the series are;

- To expose our student community to the lives of achievers from the fabric of society and academia through lectures on a single platform;
- To sensitize students towards social concerns;
- To bring the public and academia on a common platform with mutual involvement and assistance;
- To facilitate students and faculty of the university to assimilate the curriculum through discussions and debate;
- Disseminating a wide spectrum of knowledge to the students.

The lecture series was initiated in January 2014 with a dedicated team of 7 members to conduct the series under the patronage of Prof. S S Murty, then Vice Chancellor of the University.

Three Days International Conference (Webinar) on "Thinking Translation: Exploring Dialogues across the Disciplines" Under Publication House, Karnataka Central University, Kalaburgi Dist. On August 10, 11 & 12th 2020.

Translation as an intellectual exercise was evident in some of the earliest societies, and its scope has further widened and evolved throughout history as societal and cultural process became rather complex and dynamic, enabling numerous disciplines to participate with their unique insights and approaches. Despite the permeating influence of translation in the day to day life, rarely has there been a platform for meaningful deliberation on Translation ideals and praxis across disciplines. It is for this reason, the three day international webinar on the theme "Thinking Translation: Exploring dialogue across disciplines" was conceptualised by Prasaranga (Publishing house of Central University of Karnataka), which later successfully took off in different sessions of the day from 10th to 12th August 2020. Further, the sessions were fruitfully executed by well recognised personalities in the field of academia, creative writing and Theatre practitioners. The first day of the Webinar began with the inaugural keynote address which was delivered by Professor Indrani Mukherjee, and the speakers in the later evening sessions of the same day were Professor Sundar Sarrukai and Professor H. S Shivaprakash. On the second day, the speakers who spoke at different sessions include Professor Vanamala Vishwanatha, Dr Rojio Usham, Dr Eaterine Kire and Dr Jelle JP Wouters. The last and the third day sessions ended with Maria Del Castillo Suqercuia and Dr Shashi Kumar. The conceptual dangers of treating Translation as a mere linguistic exercise was highlighted by Professor Shiva Prakash, Professor Sundar Sarrukai and Professor Vanamala

Vishwanatha and they emphasized upon broader cultural phenomena for meaningful translation; Culture in its widest sense encompassing of the complex whole that surrounds human's day to day life. Professor Indrani Mukherjee and Dr Shashi Kumar further reflected on the challenges and praxis of Translation by drawing cues from the marginalised communities in Latin America and India. Dr Kire, Dr Maria and Dr Usham beautifully elaborated how pertinent themes of lived experiences of communities at the margins could be beautifully weaved and translated into human bodily performances and creative writings as an aesthetic expression and for translating cultural messages. Dr Jelle JP Wouters as an ethnographer and a field worker reflected on the methodological concerns of Translation. One facet which was persuasive in his own translation exercise was Rappo building and mastering the basic language of the natives for they enabled him to successfully gather quality data on the underpinnings that surround societal phenomena under investigation. The sessions were both inaugurated and declared closed in the gracious presence of former Vice Chancellor Prof HM Maheswaraiah, then Pro Vice Chancellor Professor G R Naik, and Registrar Professor Mushtaq Ahmed Patel. The organising committee of the international webinar was further led by Professor Vikram Visaji and the co- organisers and moderators of different sessions were Dr Kiran Gajanur, Dr P Kumar Mangalam, Dr Longshibeni N Kithan and Mrs Deepthi.

- Seamless integration between technology and education delivery by providing a single platform based on new technologies and open standards
- Access control/role-based access to data in real-time (for all its stakeholders) provide accessible, user-friendly administrative and student support services
- Reduced the need for backup or shadow systems
- A platform for re-engineering practices and continuous process improvements.

The Salient Features of the System are:

Single Sign-On:
Web based Single sign-on with Optional LDAP integration

Cross-Platform:
"Samarth" is based on open standards, hence gives the flexibility to choose from the various available platforms for the deployment including Linux, UNIX and Windows.

Interoperability:
Each module exhibits great ease in exchanging information, hence a transaction flow, which requires passing through the multiple components can be easily implemented.

Modularity and Scalability:

"Samarth" modules can function as independent applications. The modular architecture enables the users to define the functional instance by selecting application modules relevant for the use case. The architecture is SAAS oriented and hence highly scalable.

Security
"Samarth" addresses security at multiple layers. The entire framework works on RBAC (Role-Based Access Control) and requires multilevel authentication for business-critical functions. At the data layer, critical user information like passwords is encrypted prior to storage in the database. The web transactions are secured by implementing HTTPSAccess Control) and requires multilevel authentication for business-critical functions.
