SBS wins Cricket

One of the most anticipated sports in Ankur fest was the cricket match. It was held both in the male and female categories. Almost every School in the university took part in this cricket league. In boys category defending champions, The School of Business Studies due to their impeccable records in a cricket field completed this league again as a champion for consecutive 6th time. The final match was held between the School of Engineering and the School of Business Studies. In this energetic finals, the School of Engineering gave its best to win the game against the School of Business Studies but the School of Business Studies outperform them as they could not could not the chase the target score. In the girl's category, the final was between the School of Engineering and the School of Business Studies. Interestingly this trophy was also bagged by the School of Business Studies.

Football goes to SBS

The football league was the most spirited sport of Ankur 2020. Six schools participated in this league. The participants played in good spirit even though they face problem with the hard surface of the field. The final match between the School of Business Studies and the School of Physical Science made the viewers stick to their seats and each cheering their own teams. The strong resistance from both teams made the results go to penalty shootouts. In the shootout SBS team made the winning goal which helped SBS to carry its unbeatable performance.

Volleyball is the game of coordination between the players. This Ankur fest witnessed a long heated final match between SBS and SES, where the School of business studies managed to get the title. Both teams were well prepared and were not ready to accept defeat. These made the match exciting and their fighting spirit was seen throughout the match. However, SBS proved themselves again and became successful in maintaining the legacy of becoming the volleyball champion. The final in women's category was between the School of Humanities and Languages and School of Physical Science. With the brilliant performance, girls of School of Physical Science became the champions of the tournament

School of Earth Science took away Kabaddi

Kabaddi was the most interesting sport of Ankur. In boy's category, the School of Earth Science and the School of Chemical Science were able to make it to the finals. The School of earth science managed to get a tremendous victory after a nail-biting match. "We have been trying to win the title from the last few years, but this year the dream came true," said the captain of the team SES. In girls category, School of Earth Science faced School of Chemistry in the finals. Wherewith their quick moves and good team spirit, School of Earth science won the match and grabbed the title of champions

Tough competition between SES vs SOE

Track events on the campus were a treat to the spectators, and it all had a nail-biting finish. We could see the effort and preparations of the schools to win the competition. Track events included 100mts, 200mts, 400mts, 4x100 meters relay, and 4x400mts relay for both boys and girls. People present witnessed the tough competition mainly between School of Earth Science and School of Engineering and their aspiration to win the trophy.

Field Events: SES continues their winning streak

Field events included discus throw and shotput for both the categories. Participants from all the Schools showed their potential and grip in the event. School of Earth Science continued with their brilliant performance even in field events, which clearly showed their interest and dedication towards the sport.
